INTRODUCTION

At UNCTAD XI, in June 2004, member States decided that a mid-term review should be conducted by the Trade and Development Board in 2006. At its thirty-eighth executive session, in April 2006, the Trade and Development Board decided that the objectives of the Mid-term Review would be threefold: (a) to evaluate implementation of the outcomes of UNCTAD XI; (b) to strengthen UNCTAD's role in each of its three pillars; and (c) to conduct a policy dialogue at the highest possible level. It further decided that the Mid-term Review would consist of three parts; the first part would begin on 8 May and would be primarily a stocktaking exercise with regard to the implementation of the São Paulo Consensus. The second part, on the three pillars, would take place in June, and the third part, on policy dialogue, would take place in September. The report on the first part of the Mid-term Review was issued in document TD/B(S-XXIII)/4. The report on the second part of the Mid-term Review was issued in document TD/B(S-XXIII)/5. The present report reflects the outcome of the Board's deliberations at the third part of the Mid-term Review. An account of the Board's discussions will be issued in volume II of this report.

C. UNCTAD, development and the way forward

The Trade and Development Board,

Reaffirming the outcomes of UNCTAD XI,

Recognizing that the full and effective implementation of the outcomes of UNCTAD XI will advance the broader international discourse on development and strengthen the United Nations' development machinery,

Cognizant of the holding of UNCTAD XII in Ghana in 2008,

39. Reiterates UN General Assembly resolution 60/265, which recognizes, inter alia, that the United Nations should play a fundamental role in the promotion of international cooperation for development and the coherence, coordination and implementation of the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals, and resolves to strengthen coordination within the United Nations system, in close cooperation with other relevant multilateral financial, trade and development institutions, in order to support sustained economic growth, poverty and hunger eradication, and development.

40. Agrees that:

- (a) UNCTAD plays an important role in forging consensus on development-related issues and in supporting the development of policy options that harness emerging opportunities while assisting developing countries and countries with economies in transition in addressing the challenges of globalization;
- (b) The work of UNCTAD, in its three pillars, towards the achievement of development goals and objectives is focused on an integrated treatment of trade and development and the related issues and to that end contributing to the creation of a conducive international environment for development and assisting developing countries and countries with economies in transition in the effective implementation of their national development strategies, taking into account country-specific priorities, needs and circumstances and their international commitments and within the framework of international disciplines and commitments;
- (c) UNCTAD shall increase its support for South-South cooperation and regional and interregional initiatives;

Globalization for development

41. Recognizes that the opportunities and challenges of globalization and the pace and direction of global economic integration have affected all countries in different ways;

globalization has allowed a number of countries to accelerate economic growth and development, while presenting serious challenges to others, particularly the LDCs;

42. Agrees that, to maximize the benefits of globalization for developing countries, especially the LDCs, and countries with economies in transition, UNCTAD shall in its three pillars of work, inter alia:

- (a) Aim at the revitalization of a global partnership for development by contributing to global consensus building on trade-and-development-related issues, including the problems of countries dependent on the export of few primary commodities as they are affected by globalization; by supporting all countries in their efforts to contribute constructively to international processes and norm-setting procedures; and by providing support for the design of national development strategies and capacity building;
- (b) Promote and support the efforts of all countries to deliver on their development-related commitments and to work together on strengthening global structures to ensure stable, complementary and mutually reinforcing multilateral trading, monetary and financial systems that will advance the development of all countries;

Coherence for development between national development strategies and international economic processes

43. Considers that, in order to enable developing countries to reap greater benefits from globalization and to achieve the international development goals, including those contained in the Millennium Declaration, there is a need to enhance the coherence and consistency of the international monetary, financial and trading systems and global economic governance. There is a need to broaden and strengthen the participation of developing countries and countries with economies in transition in international economic decision-making and norm-setting, as well as the continuing efforts to reform the international financial architecture. This should include support for measures to deal with present and potential problems and challenges such as maintaining debt sustainability in all developing countries, especially heavily indebted poor countries after they have benefited from debt relief under the HIPC initiative;

44. Recognizes that good governance within each country and at the international level is essential for sustainable growth and development. Sound economic policies, solid democratic institutions responsive to the needs of the people, and improved infrastructure are the basis for sustained economic growth, poverty eradication and employment creation. Freedom, peace and security, domestic stability, respect for human rights, including the right to development, the rule of law, gender equality, market-oriented policies, and an overall commitment to just and democratic societies are also essential and mutually reinforcing. Transparency in the financial, monetary and trading systems, and full and effective participation of developing countries in global decision-making, are essential to good governance and to development and poverty eradication. These basic factors need to be complemented by policies at all levels to promote investment, building of local capabilities, and successful integration of developing countries into the world economy. A crucial task is to enhance the efficacy, coherence and consistency of macroeconomic policies;

45. Recognizes that national development strategies reflecting the diversity of the ways to progress must take into account the specific priorities, needs and circumstances of each country. It is for each Government to evaluate the trade-off between the benefits of accepting international rules and commitments and the constraints posed by the loss of policy space. It is particularly important for developing countries, bearing in mind development goals and objectives, that all countries take into account the need for appropriate balance between national policy space and international disciplines and commitments;

46. Agrees, therefore, that UNCTAD shall, within its mandate, under the São Paulo Consensus, inter alia:

- (a) Contribute to increasing coherence for development between national development strategies and the international monetary, financial and trading systems, taking into account the need for developing countries to identify and choose appropriate policy instruments and taking into account country-specific priorities, needs and circumstances and their international commitments and within the framework of international disciplines and commitments;
- (b) Contribute, within its mandate, to the implementation of the outcome of the High-level Comprehensive Mid-term Review of the Programme of Action for the LDCs for the decade 2001-2010, bearing in mind that the challenges of poverty reduction in these countries are immense and will require special national and international efforts to address them;
- (c) Continue and strengthen its work, across the three pillars of UNCTAD, on good governance at the national and the international levels within its mandate on trade and development and related issues in accordance with paragraph 21 of the São Paulo Consensus;
- (d) Provide a forum for intergovernmental development-oriented dialogue on the range of policy options available, taking into account country-specific priorities, needs and circumstances and their international commitments and within the framework of international disciplines and commitments;
- (e) Assist in ensuring that trade-related policies and processes, as well as efforts to resolve trade and development problems associated with commodity dependence, help maximize development gains and contribute to poverty eradication, including through support of efforts to reach a development-focused outcome of the WTO's Doha Work Programme. In particular, UNCTAD shall, in close cooperation with other relevant organizations, in its three pillars of work, inter alia:
  - (i) Support the full, effective and beneficial participation of developing countries and countries with economies in transition in international trade and trade negotiations;
  - (ii) Assist LDCs to increase utilization of duty-free and quota-free market access granted for their products in the developed countries and in developing countries declaring themselves in a position to do so, in line with the WTO Hong Kong Ministerial Declaration;

- (iii) Assume an important role in providing assistance to developing countries under the Aid for Trade initiative, taking into account their national development strategies;
- (f) Strengthen its work on South-South cooperation, including through the GSTP, in view of recent developments in the framework of international trade and financial flows;
- (g) Ensure that its technical cooperation be demand-driven, needs-based and tailored to countries and/or regions, building and enhancing the development of productive capacities, competitiveness and market access for developing countries;

UNCTAD, UN reform and development

47. Recognizes that the United Nations has the legitimacy, credibility and capacity to serve as a forum for the development of global responses to global problems, and that UNCTAD, with its universal membership, plays an important role within the UN system as its focal point for the integrated treatment of trade, development and related issues;

48. Agrees that,

- (a) UNCTAD's intergovernmental machinery should play its full role in contributing to the outcome of the UN reform process and in addressing its implications for UNCTAD, and noting the interventions by the Ministers and delegations during the high-level policy dialogue on "UNCTAD, development and the way forward", looks forward to commencing, before the end of the year, intergovernmental consultations which will include, inter alia, the Report of the Panel of Eminent Persons established by the Secretary-General of UNCTAD on possible ways of enhancing the development role and impact of UNCTAD, in the light of its mandate and in accordance with the agreed outcome under the section on strengthening the three pillars of UNCTAD in this document;
- (b) UNCTAD shall, within its mandate, contribute substantively to the implementation, follow-up and review processes of the outcomes of recent global conferences. UNCTAD's work in this regard shall contribute to the preparatory work for UNCTAD XII.
