PROGRAMME

Date online 22 – 24 September 2021

15th session of UNCTAD under the theme From inequality and vulnerability to prosperity for all

Background

UNCTAD 15 is set to take place against the backdrop of a world economy in crisis, a public health catastrophe, and a global society teetering on the brink of instability, uncertainty and confusion. Just shy of 18 months ago, in the first quarter of 2020, the COVID-19 pandemic was considered as a major global health challenge, the likes of which was not encountered for 100 years. The call by the UN Secretary-General in 2019 for a decade of action to meet the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) was a recognition that progress on the Goals was lagging in both speed and scale¹ (United Nations, 2020).

The need for international cooperation to effectively respond to the new environment has been acknowledged (OECD, 2020).² In these circumstances, there is strong motivation, for the upcoming UNCTAD 15 Conference to be a 'game changer'. The Conference is the highest decision-making body of UNCTAD at which member states assess current trade and development issues and formulate global policy responses.

The hosting of UNCTAD 15 in October of 2021, by a Small Island Developing State (SIDS) offers a critical opportunity to ground the discussions in the present and future realities and prospects of the most vulnerable countries and their populations. The theme of UNCTAD 15, From Inequality and Vulnerability to Prosperity for All, provides a platform to re-energize and refocus development efforts and commitments. It also presents a unique opportunity for member states to respond strategically by reinforcing the value of multilateralism and providing a renewed mandate for a strengthened UNCTAD.

This civil society forum is intended to contribute to the transformative discourse that needs to take place to address some of the systemic and structural inequalities in the trade and development space.
