

UNCTAD e-Learning on Trade and Gender Linkages

Module - Focus on Least Developed Countries

This e-learning course on trade and gender linkages aims to equip policymakers, civil society stakeholders and researchers with the skills needed to:

- Examine the two-way relationship between trade and gender
- Learn about recent developments on mainstreaming gender in trade policy
- Understand the interaction between trade policy and women`s economic empowerment in the LDCs
- Produce policy-oriented research and strategies, and influence policy making

Are you interested in making a difference by mainstreaming gender into trade policy and trade-related policy issues?

Apply by: 26 February 2023

Read more: Link to Prospectus

Apply at: Link to the application form

Course dates: 13 March to 16 April 2023

Course languages: English and French

Delivered by the Trade, Gender and Development Programme, United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD), with support from the Enhanced Integrated Framework (EIF).