Pan African trade as an engine for local economic growth and prosperity: How the AfCFTA can enhance competitiveness and trade within regional value chains

Organizer: Egypt, Madagascar, United Nations Inter-Agency Cluster on Trade and Productive Capacity

Room Virtual - Time: 15:15-16:30  28 JULY 2022

The African Continental Free Trade Area (AfCFTA) creates a market of 1.2 billion people with a combined GDP of 3.4 trillion US dollars. It has the potential to boost economic development and prosperity through accelerated intra-Africa trade. The development of regional value chains with increased value addition, higher productivity, and competitiveness depends on many factors, though. These include a common public/private sector vision, harmonized trade rules, breaking down non-tariff barriers and increasing regulatory transparency, efficient business support services including quality infrastructure and conformity assessment to create trust between trading partners, a good understanding of market opportunities and facilitation of business match-making, growing infrastructure and trade logistics, and effective banking services. The all-female panel will bring together stakeholders from the private sector and national, regional and continental institutions. It will discuss a common vision of the AfCFTA, dig deeper into concrete trading challenges and how to address them.
