Tangible solutions and approaches to empower NTFCs as coordinators of trade facilitation reforms
Moderator: Dr Mohammad SAEED, Chief of Trade Facilitation and Policy for Business Section of the International Trade Centre (ITC)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Description</th>
<th>Trade facilitation reforms aim at simplifying, harmonizing, standardizing and making trade procedures more transparent and, as such, they are a constant endeavor of every country not a one-off activity, giving NTFCs a permanent mandate. Consequently, NTFCs need to be considered as permanent platforms, coordinating national efforts to make trade, every day, a little bit cheaper, faster and simpler for economic prosperity. Understandably, Article 23.2 of the World Trade Organization Trade Facilitation Agreement obliges countries to set up or maintain a coordination mechanism that will support the implementation of the trade facilitation provisions included in the Agreement. Implementing trade facilitation reforms requires planning and coordination, because it involves several government agencies as well as collaboration with the private sector. All of this takes place within busy reform processes with tight schedules and short deadlines, political pressure and legal obligations. Monitoring therefore help to keep track of everything that is going on simultaneously, by providing tools and methods for an efficient and coordinated approach to the implementation of trade reforms in the context of the WTO Trade Facilitation Agreement.</th>

Measuring and monitoring the implementation of Trade Facilitation Reforms

Moderator: Mr. Yann DUVAL, Chief, Trade Policy and Facilitation Section, United Nations Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific (UN ESCAP)

| Description | As bodies responsible for the coordination and implementation of trade facilitation reforms, National Trade Facilitation Committees (NTFCs) are involved in several initiatives running in parallel, led by different stakeholders. Thus, NTFCs require means to assess and keep track of these reform-initiatives, resources allocated to their implementation, and their impact. This session seeks to unveil the different tools available to measure and monitor the implementation of trade facilitation measures at the national level as well as to compare performance at the regional and international levels. The session will look at providing answers to the following questions:
- How do these tools work?
- How do these initiatives increase accountability of NTFC members?
- What are the benefits and lessons learned from deploying these tools?
- What is the way forward? |

Q&A
| Description | Developing Countries and Least-Developed Countries (LDCs) aim to improve their national and/or regional capacity to better respond against future crises, such as the COVID-19 pandemic as well as ensure the minimum disruption of trade flows by identifying and understanding the effectiveness of trade measures and regulations in times of crisis. With a view to ensuring the continuation of supply and value chains and maintaining the flow of imports, exports, and transit, including essential goods, while ensuring compliance controls such as Customs, health, sanitary etc. NTFCs could have a main role on this, by coordinating such actions, particularly by assessing the awareness of the existence of the measures, how to implement them and the impact they have in alleviating the negative trade effects of a crisis. |

NTFCs role in mainstreaming digital trade facilitation solutions

Moderator: Mr. Eugene TORERO, Director, Trade Policy and Facilitation, TradeMark East Africa (TMEA)

| Description | Trade facilitation ecosystem is very much linked to the progress made by technology towards the digitalization of the trade environment. The simplification and streamlining of the trade procedures are being undertaken through the customs automation and the online access to a single point of information (with the Trade Information Portals) but also a single point of transactions for customs clearance (with the Single Windows). Efficiency of trade facilitation means reducing time consuming formalities and paper-based procedures and this can only happen with the integration of IT tools and technology in the border services. The examples of the electronic cargo tracking system in the EAC and the implementation of the e-phyto certificates are also innovations which can contribute to increasing the efficiency of the trade facilitation ecosystem. What are the conditions for the Governments and the Regional Economic Communities (RECs) to ensure that at national and regional levels, the trade facilitation ecosystem integrates the required technology to transform the public services in order to best serve the business community? |

Day Three (Thursday, 3 February 2022)

How can NTFCs become promoters of gender equality in trade facilitation policies?

_Moderator: Ms. Simonetta ZARRILLI TRAEGER, Chief, Trade, Gender and Development Programme, United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD)_

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Description</th>
<th>Women exporters and importers and female informal cross-border traders face significant gender-based challenges, which include time constraints, compliance costs of burdensome procedures, legal discrimination, and harassment at the border. Despite multilateral calls to address those issues and to make trade and development policies more gender responsive, including at the 2017 Buenos Aires WTO Ministerial Conference, limited progress has been made on gender equality in international trade. At the national level, very few NTFCs have taken decisions or actions to mainstream gender into trade facilitation policies. Their membership and chairmanship remain male dominated, with limited awareness on gender issues. How can NTFCs effectively address gender-based challenges faced by women traders and better integrate a gender perspective into trade facilitation reforms?</th>

<tr>
<th>Description</th>
<th>Covid-19 highlighted the role of NTFCs in the simplification of procedures and the linkages with cross-border cooperation and E-Commerce. What is the role of NTFCs and how can the private and public sector work together to simplify procedures and increase cross-border cooperation? Around the globe, NTFCs are finding it difficult to increase cross border cooperation, while focusing on simplifying procedures and considering the challenges and benefits of E-Commerce. This session will go in depth how to simplify procedures while focusing on E-Commerce and allows NTFCs members to exchange good practices.</th>
