Launch of the report “Rapid assessment of value addition and diversification within and beyond the critical energy transition minerals value chain: Namibia”

Background

United Nations Trade and Development (UNCTAD), through its Extractive Commodities Section within the Division of International Trade and Commodities, has implemented the project Critical energy transition minerals: Rapid assessment of value addition and diversification capacity in Southern Africa to support Namibia in identifying actionable pathways for industrialization and economic diversification beyond raw commodity exports. The advanced version of report of this project is now complete. It consolidates findings, sectoral opportunities, and policy recommendations aimed at strengthening resilience, creating jobs, and fostering sustainable growth. This project is funded by the Government of Japan.

Objectives and expected outcomes

The launch event is designed to serve as a platform for presenting the key findings and recommendations of the report to Namibia’s national stakeholders, ensuring that decision-makers and partners fully understand the opportunities for value addition and diversification. Beyond sharing insights, the event will facilitate an open dialogue on next steps for implementation, including a focused discussion with development partners on how to mobilize support and resources. Ultimately, the launch aims to reaffirm Namibia’s commitment to structural transformation and inclusive development, positioning the country to capture greater benefits from its commodity sectors while advancing sustainable economic growth.
