UNCTAD Sustainable Freight Transport (SFT) National Assessment for Angola

CONTEXT

As part of its capacity-building and training activities on transport and logistics, UNCTAD is conducting an assessment of sustainable freight transport in Angola.

The assessment aims to provide a rapid analysis of Angola's freight transport sector, including maritime, road, rail, and corridors, as well as links to value chain development. It is structured around the three main pillars of sustainability: economic, social and environmental.

By involving a wide range of stakeholders from government, the private sector (both transport service providers and users), associations, research institutes, NGOs, etc. involved in the freight transport sector, this assessment aims to examine the current status and performance of the freight transport sector, as well as the opportunities and challenges for promoting more efficient, environmentally friendly and socially inclusive freight transport systems and logistics. The expected outcome of the assessment is a report with policy recommendations and an action matrix, underpinned by a comprehensive qualitative and quantitative analysis of the sector.

OBJECTIVES

The objective of the mission is to conduct meetings and face-to-face interviews with various stakeholders to collect information and data in relation to the ongoing assessment of sustainable freight transport being conducted by UNCTAD. An important aspect of the assessment is data collection and analysis. In-person meetings and interviews are aimed at complementing the online surveys to gather data, insights, and perspectives relevant to Angola's freight transport and logistics sector.

At the same time, UNCTAD will also participate in the 2nd EU-Angola Business Forum.
