APPLICATION GUIDELINES

Applicant profile

The course is aimed at government officials from the ministries of trade, competition policy, planning, foreign affairs and finance, and central banks.

Participants should be in positions involving the formulation and implementation of policies in one or more of the following fields:

- Globalization and interdependence;
- International trade and development;
- Finance and development;
- Investment and development;
- National development policies.

Participants should at least:

- Have had advanced training in economics, business, international relations, international law, political science or public administration, or have completed equivalent studies, or have equivalent experience;
- Have at least eight years' relevant professional experience in a national public administration, an international or regional development organization or a private institution dealing with the above-mentioned areas;
- Be in a position to disseminate the information and knowledge acquired during the course.

A perfect working knowledge of English, the official language of this training course, is indispensable. Proven competencies such as communication abilities, and an aptitude for teamwork, and information sharing, are prerequisites, so as to maximize the benefits of the course for national administrations. It would be highly desirable for participants to remain in relevant official positions for as long as possible after the course.

II. Instructions on completing and submitting applications

Candidates are required to submit their applications in English. In addition to a completed application form, applications must include the candidate's curriculum vitae together with a letter stating his or her competencies and interest in the training, and a short paper (1-2 pages) on a topic of his or her choice which is related to the training course (see syllabus).

All expenses related to the preparation and organization of the training course, including a daily subsistence allowance (DSA) for all participants, will be borne by UNCTAD. However, countries will be requested to cover travel expenses to and from Geneva for their candidates. Travel expenses for seven participants from least developed countries will be paid by UNCTAD. The selected candidates will be responsible for obtaining valid visas for Switzerland, France and Italy prior to their arrival in Geneva.

Only applications submitted officially by Governments will be considered.

Applications must reach the UNCTAD secretariat by 30 April 2001.

Preference will be given to applications that have been submitted on time and include all the documents requested.

Training Course on Key Issues on the International Economic Agenda

NOTIFICATION

At its tenth session held in Bangkok (February 2000) the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD) adopted a Plan of Action (TD/386), which in its paragraph 166 states the following:

“166. UNCTAD’s existing capacity-building programme should be strengthened. This would enable officials and other individuals from developing countries and some interested countries with economies in transition to become better informed, through regular training courses in cooperation with the United Nations Staff College, of key issues on the international economic agenda, in particular with development dimensions within UNCTAD’s field of competence. These courses would draw on the expertise and policy analysis work of the UNCTAD secretariat, with the support of an advisory body to be established by the Trade and Development Board. In course delivery, cooperation and coordination would be assured with relevant research and academic institutions and with other relevant international organizations, taking into consideration the commitment of UNCTAD to the Integrated Framework for Trade-related Technical Assistance for the LDCs...”

In response to the above mandate the UNCTAD secretariat is organizing a first training course to:

- Enhance the capacity of officials and other individuals from developing countries and some countries with economies in transition to become better informed of key issues on the international economic agenda, in particular those with development dimensions within UNCTAD’s field of competence;
- Increase awareness of the diverse policy and other conditions necessary for attaining competitiveness and participating effectively in the rapidly changing global economic environment.

At the conclusion of the training course, the trainees will be expected to have gained a better understanding of:

- The main features and trends that determine the international economic agenda from the point of view of development;
- The interfaces between trade, investment and development issues and their implications for the formulation and implementation of integrated development strategies;
- The use of multidisciplinary approaches in tackling the various aspects of trade and development issues;
- The relevant information on trade and development issues that concern their countries;
- Comparative national experiences in the trade and development policies of developing and developed countries;
- Best practices in designing and implementing national, regional and international policies on trade and sustainable development.

The syllabus of the course is designed to draw on UNCTAD perspectives and expertise in the area of trade and development policies, and to disseminate and enhance the understanding of UNCTAD analytical work as well as the lessons drawn from UNCTAD technical cooperation activities. The content and the approaches provided by the course are based on UNCTAD's knowledge of the topics involved, as well as on the competence and expertise of other relevant international organizations.

The course is aimed at senior government officers, at director level, from the ministries of trade, competition policy, planning, foreign affairs and finance, and central banks, involved in the formulation and implementation of national trade and development policies.

The duration of the training course will be four weeks - from Wednesday, 20 June, to Tuesday, 17 July 2001. The first segment (20-22 June) and the final segment (16-17 July) will be held in Geneva, while the core course will be hosted at the United Nations Staff College/International Training Centre in Turin.

UNCTAD member States are invited to present candidatures, which will be examined by an UNCTAD Selection Committee. Candidatures will be accepted until 30 April 2001. Member States/successful candidates will be notified of the decision of the Selection Committee by 21 May 2001.

A group of 21 participants, including 7 from LDCs, will be selected: 7 from African countries, 6 from Asian countries, 6 from Latin America and the Caribbean, and 2 from countries with economies in transition. Member States may present more than one candidature; however, only one candidate will be chosen per country. Preference will be given to applications that have been submitted on time and include all the documents requested.

All expenses related to the preparation and organization of the training course, including a daily subsistence allowance (DSA) for all participants, will be borne by UNCTAD. However, countries will be requested to cover travel expenses to and from Geneva for their candidates. Travel expenses for seven participants from LDCs will be paid by UNCTAD.

An outline of the training syllabus (P166.2001.S.1), application guidelines (P166.2001.AG.1) and the application form (P166.2001.AF.1) are attached.
